

The longer this no fly zone remains in existence, the more damage is done to the freedom and right to travel, (in spite of the lame fiction that driving and flying is a state ordained privilege.) The physics of flying predates any government organization and that there is no right to fly is rooted in the ancient but convenient nonsense that flying is against the law of nature. In fact it is in the law of nature. Its conversion from a right to a privilege is further evidence of the class hatred mentality that pervades every government. The nature of government to control and restrict. It is backwards thinking. We should be moving forward and not backward. The American dream is to improve the human condition. Enhance life, liberty and property, not constrain it. Lets see the evidence that general aviation operations anywhere are a real threat to our society or merely a convenient boogey man. General Washington said that "Government is not reason or eloquence. It is force, and like fire it is a deadly servant and a fearful master." I want my right to travel restored. And that includes around the capital of the beacon of freedom.
